Since last 8 Years the Institute is offering higher education in the triable region of Palghar District, of the Maharashtra. The Institute work with a clear:

Vision:

“To be amongst the top institution in the earth,enthusing the students with the trait of innovative thinking though exhaustive research programs in science and technology, thus empowering them to not only be responsible citizens but also to contribute in the field of technological advances in the world.

Mission:

To provide excellent education in India through our institution nurturing the students with the best pedagogy; thus, empowering them with new cutting-edge expertise in their individual discipline.

The stated vision and mission of the institute is reflected in the kind of infrastructure, learning, atmosphere, teacher numbers and student centric activities offered by the Institute. The management, Principal and the faculty members are making every effort to serve the students of this region staying in tune with its mission statement.

The institute has established various academic and administrative committees to ensure the seamless operation of various activities related to the institute's vision and mission. On these committees, there is representation from both staff and students. Various committees hold regular meetings where decisions are made by consensus. These choices are carried out.

The organization encourages a participative management style that involves all stakeholders in the decision-making process and is centered on decentralization. It reflects the formulation of plans, policies, and their implementation.

The Principal and IQAC are granted autonomy and adaptability by the upper management to oversee all academic and administrative operations of the institute. They convene on a regular basis and take the required actions to formulate, organize, and carry out the policies that support the institute's expansion.

Every academic year starts with a faculty meeting where the topic of how to keep the institution running smoothly all year long is discussed. A number of committees are established and given specific duties. All committees are headed by the chairperson nominated by its members and continuously work on quality improvement.

The institute's principal oversees all academic and administrative responsibilities.

HODs are assigned particular tasks and obligations to handle the day-to-day routine work of their department and make sure that the activities within the department run smoothly. Each faculty member participates in a range of administrative, co-curricular, extracurricular, and academic activities.

The institution's management runs regular meetings where they talk about problems and difficulties related to the students' and the institute's development. The institution's management encourages all parties involved to communicate their thoughts, feelings, and recommendations via the appropriate channels. Future decision-making takes into account the feedback analysis and the input from the various committees.
