Event Objective:

The Ideal Institute of pharmacy proudly organized an environmental awareness and tree plantation campaign titled “Ek Ped Maa Ke Naam 2.0” on 14 June 2025. This heart-warming initiative encouraged students, teachers, and staff to plant a tree in honor of their mothers, celebrating both motherhood and the importance of environmental conservation.

The event began at 11:00AM to 1:00PM with an introductory speech by Dr Hemant Savara (Member Of Parliament), Mr. Harischandrad Bhoje Sir (Member of Legislative Assembly) and_Dr. Sonali Vinod Uppalwar (Principal of IIP), who emphasized the importance of trees in combating climate change and how this campaign adds a personal and emotional touch to the cause. He/She also highlighted how planting a tree in the name of one’s mother is a symbolic gesture of love and gratitude.

More than 15 saplings were planted in the Institute premises and nearby areas. Participants brought a variety of plants including neem, mango, peepal, and other native species that are known for their environmental benefits.

Students wrote heartfelt messages and tied name tags of their mothers on the planted saplings, adding a unique emotional connection to the activity. The campaign was not only a tree-planting drive but also a reflection of values like respect, responsibility, and sustainability. The event concluded with a group photo and distribution of certificates to all participants. Refreshments were served, and everyone left with a sense of pride and fulfilment.

Overall, the “Ek Ped Maa Ke Naam 2.0” campaign was a huge success. It not only spread awareness about environmental preservation but also created a personal bond with nature through the love and memory of our mothers.
